Newsletter

November 2023

The Carol Greer Learning Center partnered with the LCC Science Club to work with the Greer Participants several Saturday's each month. Carol McGrath from Williamston presents a science experiment followed by the introduction of live wildlife from "Nature Discovery" in Williamston. "Emphasis is placed on Michigan's living resources and allows our participants to become familiar with wildlife most likely encountered and affected by our actions. "

Participants take a close up look at the box turtle as Ms. Carol explains their biology and the ecology of this species. They learn about the factors that contribute to the population declines and what can be done to help in their survival. At the end of the presentation, the participants are allowed to touch the turtles.

The newsletter is our way of showing in a picture format with brief comments the activities the participants have exposure to. As the year is ending we wanted to list some of the places and activities.
